Introduction

Pizza tastes better when it's cooked right, but for a national pizza franchise with over 800 locations across 34 states, cooking pizza the right way was starting to cost a lot of money in energy bills. Insisting on premium quality pizza, they needed a solution to drive down energy costs.

-  Rising Energy Costs
-  Many locations
-  Budget Control

Running extremely hot ovens for most of the day and keeping fresh pies warm, pizza restaurants can quickly accumulate large and overbearing energy bills. Add to that hundreds of locations and a fluctuating energy market and this national Pizza chain was looking for a solution.

The Solution

What started with a simple phone call offering lower energy rates resulted in a life-time relationship and hundreds of thousands of dollars in annual energy savings.

Accessing their energy rates by location, Energy Professionals was able to source their energy from alternate sources; finding the lowest energy rates available and cutting their energy costs by up to 30%.

Managing their energy rates across all qualifying locations, Energy Professionals now acts as their energy manager so they can focus on one thing, making authentic and delicious pizza.
